

Sept. 1956

Contents

INTRODUCTION

PART I: FROM 1776 TO 1848 (30 pages)

- Chapter I: The Industrial Revolution and Classical Political Economy
- Chapter II: The French Revolution and Classical German Philosophy
- Chapter III: Marx and the Utopian Socialists
- Chapter IV: Proudhon -- A Study in Mental Juggling
- Chapter V: A New Humanism -- Marx's Early Economic-Philosophic Writings

THEORETICAL INTERLUDE: INTELLECTUALS AND THE 1848 REVOLUTIONS

- Chapter I: 1848: The Year of Revolutions (20 Pages)
- Chapter II: Theoretical Interlude: Critique of Political Economy

PART II: MARXISM (100 pages)

- Chapter I: The Civil War in the United States and the Structure of CAPITAL
- Chapter II: Marx's CAPITAL and the Paris Commune
- Chapter III: CAPITAL, Volume I -- 1867-1883
- Chapter IV: Logic and Scope of Volumes II and III (including Theories of Surplus Value)

INTERLUDE: FROM THE DEFEAT OF THE PARIS COMMUNE TO WORLD WAR I (10 pages)

PART III: WORLD WAR I: THE GREAT DIVIDE IN MARXISM (25 pages)

- Chapter I: The Fall of the Second International and Lenin's Philosophic Notebooks
- Chapter II: Forms of Organization: Spontaneous Self-Organization of Proletariat and "Vanguard Party"

PART IV: THE PROBLEMS OF OUR DAY: STATE CAPITALISM vs. FREEDOM (85 pages)

- Chapter I: The New Deal and the New Political Economy
- Chapter II: Russian State Capitalism
- Chapter III: The American Scene: Toward a New Unity of Theory and Practice in the Age of Automation

APPENDICES: UNPUBLISHED WRITINGS OF MARX AND LENIN

- I: "Private Property and Communism" and "Critique of Hegelian Dialectic" -- Marx
- II: Hegel's Science of Logic -- Lenin

11822