

August 8th, 1938

Dear Rae,

Please forgive the brevity of this note. I am very busy right now re-writing the second chapter which must go to the translator in the next few days.

Could you lay your hands on Bulletins ##32, 54-55 and 56-57? Nahnalia wants to bind the next volume but these issues are very frayed and yellowed and she would like to get newer copies, if at all possible.

LD seemed very pleased with your information on the Bulletin and the Club (only I being more sceptical hope that you can dispose of your ambitious order). Did you notice that your circular letter on the club had an annoying mistake? It referred to Sergei Sedoff and not to Leon as being the former editor of the Russian Bulletin. I suppose at the next occasion you get this mistake will be rectified.

We have not heard from Vanzlor in some time now. Is he in town? I hope that you have recovered sufficiently from all the blows rained upon you to be your old self again and again begin to supply LD with the quotations and information that he is so sorely in need of for his book.

Best regards to you and Max

November 30, 1938

Dear Rae:

In the New York Times there appears a dispatch from Moscow dated November 20th which says in part:

"This momentous change in the "party" line was first indicated in Joseph Stalin's letter to V. I. Ivanoff last February. Now, however, it is fully formulated in a sixteen-page instruction to propagandists.

"These are contained in the latest number of the Bolshevik, the monthly organ of the Central Committee of the Communist party."

LD is very anxious to secure a copy of these "instructions" and asks that you do so if it is at all possible.

Comradely yours,

Lillian M. Curtiss

As soon as

I received your note

I set about trying to get

The November issue of

"The Bolsheviks" & finally

have a promise that

I will get one as soon

as the shipment arrives

from Russia, which ought to be, I am assured,

from one to two weeks. I will then air mail the reference to you. I hope it will still be of use them.

Meanwhile, am enclosing another clipping that will interest the D.M.

By the way,
your letter came open;
these thin envelopes
do not close unless they are sealed with red wax.

What is news
in the household? Give my warmest regards to all of them.
